Anyone looking for an unusual conference location that also offers excellent service and comfort will find what they need in the Steigenberger Nile Palace. The hotel occupies a prime location on the banks of the Nile, in the heart of the historic centre of the city and is the perfect base for discovering the beauty of the surroundings at the end of a hard day's work.

The exceptional combination of cultural highlights, relaxation and activity that waits the visitor in Luxor is sure to suit all tastes. Nowhere do major cultural sites lie so close together as in this city, whose name comes from the Arabic word "Al-Uqsar" meaning "the palaces." The Greek poet Homer gave it the name "Thebes" in the Iliad (c. 8th Century B.C.), the city of one hundred gates.

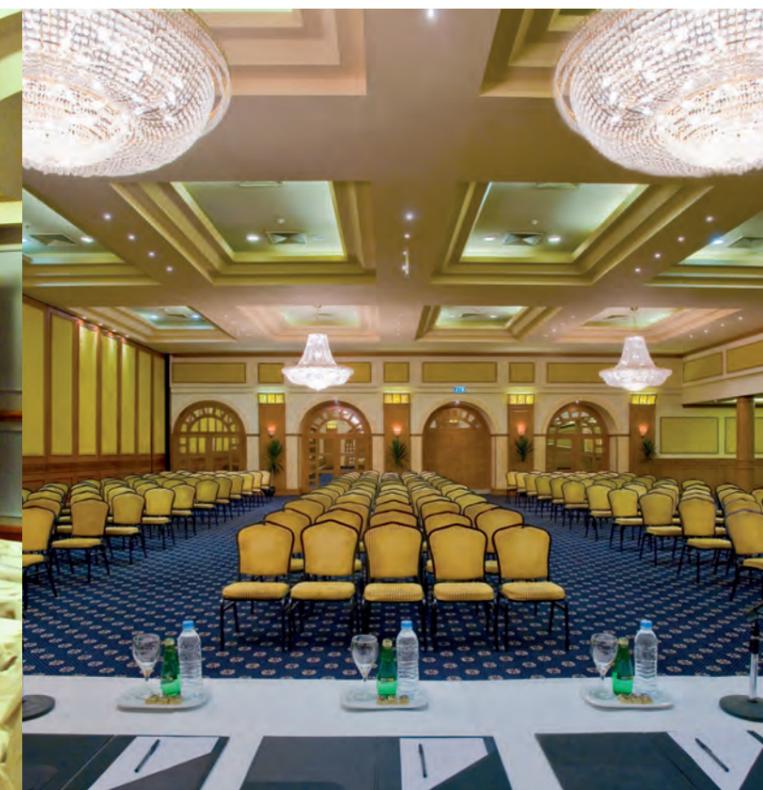

Either side of the lush green Nile Valley, Luxor the capital of ancient Egypt for more than 500 years, offers countless temples, grave sites and museums. The famous temple complex of Luxor, which was built in homage to the God Amun, dominates the city centre with its imposing obelisks and monumental statues. Viewed in the evening, when the whole complex is floodlit, it exudes a particular sense of mystery. Also on the banks of the Nile, some 3 km north of the Temple of Luxor, lies the Temple of Karnak, with its famous giant forest of columns flanking the central hall. In addition to these, the individual sites of the Necropolis of Thebes, the Valley of the Kings, the Valley of the Queens, the Ramesseum, the Colossi of Memnon and the Temple of Hatshepsut are all worthy of a visit.

Despite the unbelievable multitude of cultural highlights a stay in Luxor is also a time for peace and relaxation. Here, where the Egyptian sun shines down from a cloudless sky all the year round, it is a pleasure to spend time in the pool or sit out until late in the balmy evening. Those looking for a lively ambience can stroll through the Sha'ria Al-Souq bazaar and wallow in the bright colors of the Orient, breathe in exotic aromas, taste the sweet delicacies of the region or rummage through the bedouin handicrafts.

There is also no shortage of sporting opportunities. The Steigenberger Nile Palace offers a heated outdoor pool, a tennis court and a fitness and wellness area. Golf enthusiasts can use the nearby 18-hole golf course at special rates. A particular highlight is a trip in a hot air balloon over the Theban landscape. Starting at the Temple of Hatshepsut, this impressive flight goes south, passing over Qurna, the Ramesseum, Medinet Hadu and Malqata. Naturally, the Nile should also be part of any itinerary: a trip on a historical Nile sailing boat, a Felucca, is an unforgettable experience.

Anyone hoping to offer guests something truly special could opt for an entertaining themed evening. At the end of a tiring day it is good to relax in style – at the "Swimming Pool Party", for example. Everyone is sure to have lots of fun in this informal ambience.

Yet the alluring delights can be also experienced in great comfort away from the Steigenberger Nile Palace. A wide range of outstanding culinary ideas make every meal an unforgettable experience. Absolutely unique, for example, is the Gala Diner in the Hatshepsut temple complex. Entitled "The Night of the Pharaohs", the ambience here is truly mystical. Breathtaking illumination drapes the ancient site in fascinating colors and takes guests on a journey through the past.

The visitors are greeted by camels at the entrance to the three-storey temple complex, which nestles elegantly on a steep hillside. A luxurious tent is set up in front of the entrance. Inside you meet temple dancers perform to a gentle background music and serve up delicious dishes.

"The Night of the Pharaohs" is a night of Middle-Eastern magic that you want to last forever! The crowning glory is a short walk over the mountain, which leads in about 50 minutes to the Valley of the Kings. The fantastic view at sunset is an unforgettable reward.

An event is only judged a complete success if it has a good supporting programmers. Sporting event or excursions – there is no limit to the opportunities available. Where better to combine work and pleasure than under the Egyptian sun? Where else to enjoy momentous experiences but in the historical surroundings of the city of Luxor?

Crowning glories.

If you choose to explore this famous river by day you can travel by Felucca, the typical Nubian sailing boats with their characteristic triangular sails. Over an opulent breakfast or a delicious lunch the visitor can gaze out over the wonderful surroundings. Lush vegetation on the banks of the river contrasts with the golden sand dunes and massive rocky outcrops of the foothills. The boat sails close to colourful Egyptian villages and visitors can watch children splashing and cattle cooling off in the water.

"Island Dinner" anyone who does not believe in flying carpets should take a trip to a picturesque island in the middle of the Nile. As soon as you leave the boat you feel as if you have been transported to the world-famous Khan El-Khalili bazaar in Cairo. Traders peddle wonderful silver jewellery; Middle-Eastern cafes invite passers-by to stop and try the traditional shisha or water pipes; Egyptian delicacies are on offer everywhere you look. Finally, everyone celebrates together with a hearty barbecue buffet under the open sky.

The "Aida Evenings" the Steigenberger Nile P alace provides excellent food in a marvelous atmosphere, which even the most exacting guests will talk about for years to come. The world of the famous Verdi opera is conjured up in the temple complexes of Luxor or Habu, telling the story of the Nubian princess Aida, Amneris, the Pharaoh's daughter and Radames, the soldier, who is in love with both. As they enter the temple, guests are met by an opulent stage setting, complete with wafts of smoke and the sounds of Verdi's famous music.
